

LET'S LEARN SOME NEW TRICKS IN THE NEW YEAR!

Master Courses on Xuankong Feixing (Flying Star) and Bazhai Pai (Eight Houses School) Feng Shui with Howard Choy

Friday 7th February to Tuesday 11th February 2014

Master Course on Xuankong Feixing, Flying Star Feng Shui

This master course will cover the classical methods of Xuankong Feixing Flying Star Feng Shui, and will include advanced methods of analysis, which have not been readily available to Feng Shui practitioners before.

Howard will introduce a different method of flying the yearly stars that was passed down from Master Luo Shi-Peng, whose lineage can be traced back to Jiang Da-Hong of the late Ming Dynasty, and is more thorough than the popular Shen's methods. This method will be available to the Australian students for the first time.

If you have a good grasp of the Flying Stars and wish to further your professional development, the information learned in this course will add the finishing touch to your Feng Shui practice. Practitioners and students from different schools are welcome.

Topics include:

- An overview of the four patterns and ten arrangements of Flying Star charts, and how to recognize them instantly in the Tianxin (The Heaven's Heart) of a chart.
- Strategy and methodology for star chart analysis using the classical methods, including the difficult task of working out the directionality and the construction period of a building.
- How to analyze and give judgments to the nine stars with Wuxing (Five Elements) principles
- The theory and practice behind the "Jiehua" cures and how they work in practice
- Sample case studies from the old masters (e.g. Zhang Zhong-Shan)

- Master Luo Shi-Peng's advanced methods on assessing the influence of the external qi of space and time onto the internal qi field of a natal star chart (e.g. the influence of current Period 8 on a Period 7 or earlier house)
- The concept of Naqi (Receiving qi), and Naqi openings
- San Yuan Xuan Kong Feixing Water Methods
- The "Reversal" Water Method
- The "City Door" (Cheng Men) Water Method
- The "Seven Stars Robbery" Water Method
- Practical work samples and case studies from the participants

Participants can bring their own case studies, including plans, relevant detailed information and photographs, and if time permits, your example may be used as a case study for class discussion.

Course Date:

Friday 7th February to Sunday 9th February 2014 (18 hours CPD).

Master Course on Bazhai Pai, Eight Houses School Feng Shui

There are two popular schools of Bazhai Feng Shui – one is advocated by the book "Bazhai Mingjing" or "The Bright Mirror of Eight Houses" written by the Daoist Monk Ruo-Guan in 1791, and the other is written by Zhao Jiu-Feng earlier in 1786 and called "Yang Zhai San Yao" or "The Three Requirements of Yang Dwellings".

This course will cover the "Bright Mirror" system of charting auspicious and inauspicious sectors of a building with the 8 Wandering Qi according to compass directions. This method of Feng Shui has been passed down since the Tang Dynasty (618 – 907 AD). The system is used to correlate the pattern of an individual's 'luck' with that of a building. We will look at the working of this method and examine how to apply solutions that balance the qi patterns of individuals and buildings with real examples. The use of the Bazhai rings of the Luopan will also be taught.

Altogether there are at least four methods of Bazhai Pai Feng Shui, and each will be introduced in the course, with the method from the Bazhai Mingjing classic dealt with in detail. By the end of the workshop, Howard will cover the complete theory and practice of this popular method, and discuss the full range of Bazhai methods available.

Topics include:

- Background of Bazhai School of Feng Shui
- Theories underpinning the Bazhai School of Feng Shui
- The "Bazhai Ming Jing" – Classic text of the Bazhai School
- The concept of Location and Directionality
- Calculating the Zhai Gua for a building
- Apply solutions that balance the qi patterns of individuals with buildings
- Determining the auspiciousness of a building

- Bazhai Mingjing Solutions
- The use of the Bazhai rings on a Luopan compass
- A brief introduction to the “Yangzhai Sanyao”, the “24 Mountains (Nine-Star) Bazhai” and the “Flying Star Bazhai” methods
- Practical work samples and case studies from the participants.

Participants may bring case studies, including plans, relevant detailed information and photographs, and if time permits your example may be used as a case study for class discussion.

Course Date:

Monday 10th February and Tuesday 11th February 2014 (12 hours CPD).

About Howard Choy

Howard Choy is a Feng Shui consultant, architect and teacher with more than 30 years of practical experience working at the coalface of Feng Shui. Howard studied Feng Shui under the personal guidance of Master Ren Zhilin in Hong Kong, and he works with tertiary institutions on Feng Shui research in China, Hong Kong and Germany. Howard is the Principal of the European College of Feng Shui (ECOFS) and a director of ECOFS Consulting and ar-qi-tektur, Feng Shui architects and Planners based in Berlin. Howard is a well renowned speaker at international Feng Shui conferences, and a willing teacher who shares his knowledge and experience with his students. Howard’s Australian clients include Murdoch Magazines, Speedo Australia, Star City Casino, Sydney Darling Harbor Authority and the City of Sydney.

Why study with Howard?

“Howard’s knowledge is unparalleled. He is perhaps the only teacher of Feng Shui equally at home in practical application and academic research. He is also one of the few who understands the Chinese classics and is able to explain them not just in translated English but in Australian! His sense of humour and passion to answer any question or solve any problem, paired with his uncanny insights make him the most influential local master of his generation. It would be negligent not to take any opportunity to learn from Howard, as those who do, never leave with their skill and art unchanged.” Tyler J Rowe

“Howard is an amazing teacher with an abundance of knowledge and skills which he openly shares with the class. Howard’s teaching style is relaxed, varied and enthusiastic, providing practical excursions, clear presentation and invaluable handouts and knowledge. I look forward to doing many, many more classes with Howard.” Jill Lynch
